Lowering Of Voting Age Gets Senate OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, after overwhelmingly approving a proposal to lower the voting age for all elections to 18, moved today toward final action on extending the Voting Rights Act another five years.

The extension of the basic 1965 act, which is aimed at guaranteeing Negro voting rights in seven Southern states, has been bitterly opposed by Dixie senators and differs sharply with a House-passed version supported by President Nixon.

In approving lowering the voting age 64 to 17 Thursday, the Senate also set up another likely battle with the House, where

New York Rep. Emanuel Celler, chairman of that body's Judiciary Committee, has vowed to fight it relentlessly.

Celler will be chairman of House conferees when the time comes to reconcile the House and Senate voting rights bills.

If enacted, the 18-year-old proposal will make an estimated 11 million young people eligible to vote as of Jan. 1, 1971. Georgia, Kentucky, Alaska and Hawaii now permit persons under 21 to vote.

The Senate rejected protests that the Supreme Court might rule the amendment unconstitutional after 18-year-olds voted in the 1972 elections, thus throwing the next presidential balloting into confusion. Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., lost 72-15 on an amendment to defer the effective date until after 1972.

The vote for the voting age amendment, proposed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, was more lopsided in the Senate than had been anticipated, winning the votes of some senators who had spoken against it.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, for example, voted for it although he had told the Senate it was unwise and unsafe and might imperil the chances of extending the Voting Rights Act.

The chief argument against it, however, was that a constitutional amendment is required to lower the voting age; that Congress had no power to act by simple legislation.

Auto Club Hikes Insurance Rates

DETROIT (AP)—The Automobile Club of Michigan confirmed a report Thursday that its automobile insurance rates will go up on April 1, but refused to give specific rate increases.

The club raised its rates an average of seven per cent last April 1. On March 1 of this year, it assessed an average increase of 20 per cent for "muscle cars," powered by high-performance engines.

In announcing last year's rate hike, a spokesman cited a 40.9 per cent rise in its costs per accident since its previous increase in 1966.

With most of its 870,000 members carrying insurance through the club, the Automobile Club is Michigan's largest auto insurer.

Soviet Missile Base In Egypt Hit By Israelis

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes flew deep into Egypt again today and pounded a Soviet-built missile base on the banks of the Nile 70 miles north of Cairo, the Israeli military command announced.

All the Israeli jets returned safely from the raid on the SA2 antiaircraft missile site at El Mansura, 45 miles west of the Suez Canal, the spokesman said.

It was the 15th strike by Israeli planes deep inside Egypt since the beginning of the year. The last one took place a week ago.

Israel's Ambassador to the United States, Yitzhak Rabin, arrived in Tel Aviv today for talks with Foreign Minister Abba Eban. Authoritative sources said Rabin was recalled to give his assessment of President Nixon's delay in announcing his promised decision on Israel's request for more Phantom and Skyhawk jets.

Earlier today in the occupied Gaza Strip, Arab guerrillas shot up an Israeli bus, wounding the 54-year-old Arab driver, the Israeli military command said.

Two Arabs jumped aboard the bus and fired about 20 rounds into the vehicle carrying Arab laborers to their jobs. The workers fled when the shooting broke out.

There have been guerrilla attacks almost daily in the Gaza Strip this week, a campaign directed at Arabs whom the guerrillas accuse of cooperating with the Israelis.

WMU Target Of Dissenters

KALAMAZOO (AP) — More suspensions have been threatened by Western Michigan University's president James W. Miller in the wake of a student-police confrontation Wednesday in which 19 persons were injured and 22 students arrested.

Miller suspended Roger Messer, 19, a sophomore from Shelbyville Thursday for "fomenting disorder and disruption on the campus."

He said more students would be suspended as soon as they are positively identified as having taken part in the confrontation.

Meanwhile, state and local police reported that all was quiet on the Western campus Thursday.

Police had been alerted for possible disruptions following a discussion called by Student Mobilization, a group organized last fall to promote the Vietnam Moratorium days. The group has since broadened its scope to include campus issues, and Thursday's meeting was reportedly called to discuss issues raised by the confrontation the day before.

The original demonstration stemmed from university officials' refusal to adopt a constitution drawn up by the student government and approved by a campus vote Feb. 12.

A number of those arrested during the conflict were still in custody Thursday, unable to post bonds ranging from $1500 to $2500.

Of the 22 arrested Wednesday, two were charged with felonious assault and the others were charged with obstructing a police officer.

One of those charged was Val L. Eichenlaub, an associate professor of geography, who was free on $2,500 bond Thursday.

OK Application

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education has approved an application for $75,000 in federal funds for planning money for the newly formed Wayne County Community College. The application still has to have federal approval. Such federal funds are available for the advancement of higher education in communities with model cities grants.

McDowell-Wellman Sues C&NW Over Ore Terminal

Railroad Says Company Failed To Live Up To Contract Terms

By DAVE ANDREWS

The McDowell-Wellman Engineering Co. of Cleveland, Ohio has filed suit in federal district court in Cleveland against the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. in an apparent dispute over McDowell-Wellman's contract to design, engineer and construct the new C&NW iron ore terminal in Escanaba.

McDowell-Wellman said it is seeking to collect "approximately $2.1 million still owed on a contract totaling about $12 million."

"In addition," the engineering company said "it is seeking to collect approximately $152,000 it says the railroad owes for maintenance, equipment rental and spare parts for the material handling system."

A Chicago & North Western spokesman in Chicago today said that "while we do not wish to elaborate at this time, we found it necessary to stop payment to McDowell-Wellman because it has failed to live up to the terms of its contract."

Details of the specific allegations of the suit filed in U. S. District Court, Northern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, were not immediately available, but C&NW attorneys were reportedly studying the complaint.

McDowell-Wellman said it had a contract with the C&NW to "design, engineer and construct an iron ore and iron ore pellet storage and ship loading facility for the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. in Escanaba."

Plagued With Problems The ore terminal, financed for the railroad by the City of Escanaba through issuance of industrial development revenue bonds under Michigan's Industrial Development Act of 1963, has been plagued with problems since operations were started early last year.

Residents of North Escanaba near the terminal have complained bitterly about dust from the iron ore stockpiling and car dumping operations and the railroad has been cited for air pollution to the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission.

Report Due

A report on C&NW plans to control air pollution from the terminal is scheduled to be made to the commission in Lansing next Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. by W. H. Huffman of Chicago, assistant vice president and chief engineer, who

Tarr Named Draft Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gangling, affable one-time university president who says he hopes he can serve the young people of America has been chosen by President Nixon to head the Selective Service System.

Forty-five-year-old Curtis W. Tarr, who for the past nine months has served as assistant secretary of the Air Force for manpower and reserve affairs, was named Thursday to succeed Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who retired as draft chief Feb. 16.

The formal nomination was sent to the Senate Thursday where Tarr must be confirmed for the post he says he was not anxious to accept.

Tarr said he was first approached about the job by the White House last December but he indicated then he wanted to remain in his Pentagon post. Asked if he still would prefer to remain at the Pentagon, Tarr acknowledged that "sentimentally" he would.

The six-foot-six, smiling nominee who, for six years before joining the Nixon administration was president of Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis., emphasized at a press conference his close touch with American youth.

Asked about last November's anti-Vietnam war "March on Washington," Tarr said "it certainly was an expression by a substantial number of people whose feelings certainly were sincere."

Bomb Scares, Explosions Rock East Coast Cities

By The Associated Press

A wave of bomb scares has disrupted private and public facilities in several cities following the bombing of corporation offices in three New York skyscrapers.

The bomb scares were telephoned Thursday to schools, private and government offices, a military training center, an industrial plant, a subway terminal and the United Nations building. No bombs were found.

Severe damage was caused Thursday by the bombings of the midtown Manhattan offices of Mobile Oil Corp., International Business Machines Corp., and General Telephone & Electronics Corp. No one was hurt.

Soon after the bombings, a letter was received by United Press International from a group calling itself "Revolutionary Force 9" which said the bombings were a protest against corporation profiteering from the Vietnam war and "American imperialism in all of the third world."

New York police said they received 205 bomb threats Thursday after the explosions. An estimated 15,000 persons were affected by evacuations of at least 15 buildings during bomb searches. The United Nations building was searched without an evacuation.

Mayor John V. Lindsay called the bombings "morally reprehensible, but self-defeating for those who presumably seek change through acts of terrorism." The City Council president, Sanford D. Garelick, a former chief inspector of police,

"armed urban guerrillas."

In disruptions caused by bomb scares in other cities, all 2,700 workers at National Cash Register Co.'s main plant in Dayton, Ohio, were sent home while police searched for a reported bomb. An anonymous caller said a bomb had been placed at the plant to protest the Vietnam war.

The San Francisco City Hall was searched by police after an anonymous threat to a switch-has been working along with the Roy F. Weston Co. of Pennsylvania to develop a dust collection system.

In addition, the railroad was plagued with numerous start-up problems at the terminal, including a tragic accident last April when a Republic electrician was killed when trapped beneath the system's surge bin as the bottom fell out, sending tons of ore pellets and steel plunging to the ground.

The accident caused shutdown of ship loading operations for about a month until a conveyor to by-pass the wrecked bin could be designed and installed.

Uses Conveyors

The new facility uses a series of conveyors in handling iron ore, both in the actual ship loading operation and in stockpiling it on the ground at the terminal.

The terminal replaced the former pocket-type dock in Escanaba, which did not include facilities for stockpiling and reclaiming iron ore for shipment.

The City of Escanaba assisted the railroad company in financing the terminal by issuing revenue bonds under the industrial development act and presently holds title to the facility, but City Attorney Robert E. LeMire said today that no liability on the part of the taxpayers of the city is indicated. LeMire said he had not been

Both Parties Eye Credit For Hike In Jobless Pay

LANSING (AP)—Democrats who control the House, and Republicans, who control the Senate, are fighting for the election-year right to claim credit for sponsoring a bill to increase unemployment compensation benefits.

The measure, boosting weekly benefits by $7-11, depending on the size of an unemployed wage earner's family, won 31-2 passage in the Senate Thursday.

That version is sponsored by Sen. Oscar Bowdoin, R-Muskegon.

Identical Version

But House Democrats have an identical version of the proposal sponsored by Rep. James Bradley, D-Detroit, Labor Committee chairman who would like to see his name on the final version of the bill.

Shorthanded Thursday afternoon but still in bare control, Democrats beat down GOP attempts to scuttle the House bill and moved it into position for final passage. The process took more than three hours of name-calling debate and party-line roll calls to accomplish, however.

Argument Ensues

The arguing began when Democratic leaders tried to skip an ordinarily routine order of business that would have put

DeVos, Pryal Seek City Council Seats

Escanaba's city council pre-election picture sharpened today with announcement of two additional candidates, bringing the total to five for the three seats at stake April 6.

They are:

Maryland Bomb Victim Not Brown

BALTIMORE (AP) — A medical examiner says the second man killed in Monday's car explosion near Bel Air was positively identified Thursday night as William Herman Payne, 27, a friend of black militant H. Rap Brown.

Brown is being tried in Bel Air on charges of inciting to riot and arson in connection with civil disorders in Cambridge in 1967.

Dr. Werner U. Spitz, deputy chief medical examiner for the state, said he talked with a brother and two former associates of Payne Thursday night and showed them pictures of the blast victim's remains as well as an identification photograph found with the body. He said they identified Payne in the pictures.

The other victim of the blast was identified earlier as Ralph Featherstone, 31, also a Brown associate.

Escanaba Man Builds Windmill From Scrap, Despite Handicap

By LOU FREEMAN

Fifty-eight year old Alvin Steed of 1415 N. 20th St., is still going strong.

Despite a serious physical handicap resulting from a lung operation coupled with emphysema, Steed's quality craftsmanship is not impaired.

A miniature replica of an old Holland windmill is a fine example of his woodworking ability.

Steed says he built the windmill as a conversation piece, T. V. lamp, while a patient at the Morgan Heights Hospital in Marquette.

Has 500 Parts

The windmill contains close to 500 separate pieces of scrap lumber which he salvaged, representing practically every type of wood grown in the Upper Peninsula. The entire structure was glued together piece by piece, precisely formed, fitted, sanded, and assembled, as one would assemble an intricate puzzle.

Having access to the woodworking shop at the hospital, Al said he completed the project in about three weeks, working a couple of hours a day.

When asked about the approximate value of the windmill, he replied, "Oh gee, I don't know, but it probably would be worth more in the area of Holland, Michigan, or at least it would attract more interest there."

the Senate version before the House.

Republicans protested, sensing a chance to claim credit for liberalizing unemployment compensation rates in an election year that is expected to see substantial auto industry layoffs because of production cutbacks and an expected strike by the United Auto Workers Union.

Swallow Angered

"What happened to the years of tradition when we took the Employment Security Commission's report and handled it in a bipartisan manner?" shouted Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena.

"You sir are the obstructionists," Swallow, red-faced, yelled across the chamber to Bradley and Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit. "You want pride of authorship so you can say, 'Look what we did for labor,'" Swallow charged.

Ryan, contending a coin toss could settle whose name goes on the final bill, denied the charge.

Rep. George F. Montgomery, Democratic majority floor leader, sarcastically thanked Republicans "for obstructing us all week on the school aid bill."

School Bill Hassle

Republicans, led by Minority Leader Robert E. Waldron, attempted to block House transfer of the $12.22-billion school aid bill to the Senate. The move was aimed at holding up the $22-million parochial aid section which Waldron and many Republicans oppose. The bill previously passed by a 57-50 vote.

Environment Problem Teach-In Under Way

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A U. S. House subcommittee on conservation and natural resources meets today to study ideas on the conditions harming man's environment.

Five members of a House subcommittee on conservation and natural resources and at least two other congressmen are to preside at the session — part of a five-day teach-in on environmental problems. It is being held at the University of Michigan, and concludes Saturday.

A random sampling of comments from students Thursday, however, showed they generally felt pessimistic that the pollution problem would be cured quickly.

Solutions Lacking
"Pollution is here and they're not going to stop it like that," said Lou Hudson, a U-M senior from Chattanooga, Tenn. Referring to various discussions this week, he added "I didn't hear any solutions."

"I hope it's not another 1963 or 1964 civil rights commitment just the thing for the moment," cautioned David Clapfish, a graduate student in landscape architecture from Toledo, Ohio.

A youth in a frayed fatigue jacket, who did not give his name, said "I think the politicians are beginning to realize the students' wants are the needs and wants of America. If there is any bandwagon effect in the general concern about our environment, it's the politicians who are on it, not the students." Lack of coordination among the ideas expressed by speakers at the teach-in here—which its organizers hope will serve as a model for hundreds of similar events throughout the land on April 22 — was noted by a student from Macomb College north of Detroit.

"I think it's all real good, but all these different groups should organize. They seem to argue with each other too much," said Jack Semon of St. Clair Shores, Mich.

Semon differed with many of those interviewed since he is optimistic that the environment can be improved. "Our technology is such that we know how to stop the pollution. But I believe it's going to have to be gradual. These people can't just come in and put an end to a 200-year-old pattern."

Extinction Feared
Joyce Bader, a freshman from Pittsburgh, Pa., is openly pessimistic. "I think we're going to become an extinct species. If we're lucky, we won't take every other species with us."

Despite her forebodings, she added, "I think the only thing that will save us is having two children each. The whole thing goes back to population."

Jill Berkeley, a sophomore from Evanston, Ill., said she believes college students could provide "the radical approach it needs" to clean up our earth.

Another graduate student in landscape architecture, Ann Christoph, of Mesa, Ariz., said the teach-in has given her greater understanding. "I had no sympathy earlier with what the radicals were saying, but now I think they have some points, although I differ with some of their methods."

Highlighting the events so far was a mass rally Wednesday at which 13,000 persons attended to hear some U. S. Senators,

Church Sponsors Congo Doctor In

The First United Methodist Church of Escanaba will continue its centennial celebration on Monday, March 16, at 2 p. m. with a speaker from the Congo.

Dr. Glen J. R. Eschtruth, of Kinde, Mich., is in charge of the medical work at a large 250 bed hospital in the southern Congo for eight years and is in the States for a year's furlough.

Arriving in the Congo in 1961 at the height of conflict between the Congo Central Government and the then separatist province of Katanga, Dr. Eschtruth was assigned to the Piper Memorial Hospital at Kapanga, one of the largest Methodist Mission centers in the Congo.

The hospital services an area the size of Michigan and Indiana combined, which has a population of 120,000. In addition to supervising the medical work of the hospital, he helped establish and maintain 23 rural clinics. Being self-sufficient is essential to a missionary doctor and so he burned 500,000 brick to help make additions to the hospital, pharmacy, shop, laundry, and tuberculosis wings.

He was also instrumental in helping to set up a Methodist Radio network in the Congo, providing communication between isolated mission stations. His short wave radio system also enabled him to consult with medical specialists in the States.

Born in Detroit, Dr. Eschtruth is a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., with a bachelor of arts degree, and of Wayne State University Medical School in Detroit. He took his internship and surgical residency at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Detroit. He was Chief of Surgery in the U. S. Air Force at Cape Kennedy for two years.

Before going into the mission field, he helped to organize and was the first pastor of the United Methodist Church at Cocoa Beach, Fla. He later went to London where he completed specialty training in Tropical Medicine, and is a diplomat of the Conjoint Board of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene, London, England.

Enrollment Up On NMU Campus

MARQUETTE — Enrollment figures at Northern Michigan University for the spring semester show a five per cent increase over the same period in 1969.

Total enrollment on Northern's campus stands at 7,084 students, compared to 6,744 one year ago.

There are 2,232 freshmen, up 115 from 1969; 1,481 juniors, up 119; 1,367 seniors, up 92; and 648 graduate students, up 90. The sophomore class show 1,356, down 76 from 1969's total.

Briefly Told

Men and Women of the Moose will meet at 8 p. m. Monday at the clubrooms for a short business meeting.

Webster PTA met this week with Thomas Neumann as the presiding officer. Gary LaPlant of the police department was the guest speaker. He gave an account on bicycle safety and safety around schools. Mrs. Moore's third grade won the room count.

Lloyd Phelan, 1826 9th Ave. S., Escanaba, was honored last week by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U. S. as a delegate to the company's four day National Leaders Conference at Los Angeles. Phelan was cited as a member of the National Leaders Corps, an honor requiring the production of at least $1.5 million of life insurance coverage during one year.

Dr. Glen Eschtruth

While at the hospital in the Congo, he was the only doctor at the hospital (except for last year) and has had to do all the medical activities alone with the aid of African nurses he has trained. He does over 500 major operations yearly. The hospital also has 600 maternity cases, 4,000 hospital in-patients, and treats over 200,000 out-patients yearly.

The public is invited to attend the Monday afternoon program.

Great Lakes Fishery Fund Lag Deployed

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Complaining that the Interior Department planned a "drastic cutback" of the Federal Fishery Laboratory at Ann Arbor, Mich., Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) denounced the action as "a retreat from the battle to save the Great Lakes."

Proxmire, contending that the department planned to trim funds for the laboratory by $400,000 — more than a third — in the current fiscal year, protested in a letter to Interior Secretary Walter Hickel.

The senator said he had learned of a plan to phase out the Ann Arbor facility as a key part of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and place it under the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife in July, 1971, at a greatly reduced level.

"It is false economy," Proxmire declared. "The Great Lakes are staggering from the blows inflicted by pollution. Torpedoing the activities of the Ann Arbor laboratory would have disastrous results."

He said the facility was the leading fresh water research laboratory in the country.

Proxmire praised the laboratory's effort to control alewives and the sea lamprey and its research into the threat of pesticides.

Proxmire said he understood that the department planned to cut the funds for the lab by another third on July 7, leaving it with just $376,000 and 15 men for fiscal 1971. Then, he said, the Bureau of Sport Fisheries would take over responsibility for the Great Lakes.

Bargaining Pay

The Board of Education of the Negaunee public schools in what is believed to be a precedent-setting move as far as the Upper Peninsula is concerned has voted to hire two of their own members to represent the board in contract negotiations this year with the Negaunee Education Association.

The school board negotiators will be paid a salary, not yet determined, to serve on a negotiating committee with the superintendent of schools, the business manager and the high school principal and if the arrangement is legal it can be expected to be adopted in other districts in the U. P.

Negotiations are necessary, but time consuming, and the Negaunee board's collective opinion is that hiring their own members may be the best way out of a difficult situation.

"I don't see why we can't hire anybody that we want to," said Peter J. Ghiardi, a member of the school board. "The experiences of other school districts who have hired lawyers indicate that you are better off with a board member who knows the situation."

The approach of the Negaunee Board of education and the results of the negotiating sessions will be watched carefully by dozens of other school boards in the U. P. who are facing the same problem this spring. Although some school board members do receive some compensation (there is no salary or per diem paid to members of the Escanaba Area Board of Education) it is negligible compared to time spent on normal school matters. Negotiations — not only with teachers but separately with non-professional employees too — each year add countless hours to the job. Negotiations usually begin in the spring and sometimes run until late summer. When problems develop, as at Menominee several years ago or at Big Bay de Noc last fall, the task of hammering out a contract could run into the fall months.

In many school districts, the entire school board has served as the negotiating team, posing the problem of assembling seven busy individuals at one time to talk contract. As a result, much of the work has been accomplished in weekend meetings.

Other school districts have appointed negotiating committees from the board, but while this eliminates the time in meetings from the schedule of some board members it puts great responsibilities on a few at the risk that a committee agreement will not be accepted by the full board.

A few districts have used the superintendent as a bargainer, a situation which places the administrator in the position of a policy maker and in the difficult position of perhaps quarreling with the people who work under him.

Then there is the approach of hiring an "outside" negotiator, a person skilled in labor and contractual matters, but not always totally familiar with local circumstances.

Combinations of any of these approaches also have been used.

Of all the systems, the method to be used by the Negaunee Board of Education may be the best, although this, too, can have its problems.

It is likely, for example, that local persons can be retained more economically than a professional "outside" negotiator. Board members also should be intimately aware of the school district's financial position and also of past board policies and of contract areas where problems may exist.

There is still the hazard of the paid committee approving a contract that the full board rejects, but this would exist in any bargaining where the full board was not present. Selecting the proper board members could be a troublesome area. (Negaunee already has named two men without problems). And how much (shall negotiations expense be limited) and on what basis (hourly, by the meeting or by the contract, etc.) should board members be paid must be carefully considered.

But the thought that hundreds of school board members throughout Michigan — many of them without any previous experience in negotiations and tired after a full day's or week's work in another job — will be faced with the responsibility of working out labor contracts involving millions of dollars of tax money is frightening. Paying them for their time may not sooth blood-shot eyes or settle strained nerves, but it's got to make them feel a little better about it. And if they feel better, a better contract is the likely result.

Council Support

A 12-year-old seventh grade student at St. Thomas grade school in Escanaba has accomplished something that a group of adults has been trying to do without success for months — get the City Council of Escanaba to endorse an anti pollution effort.

Barbara Gorzinski, 814 N. 20th St., wrote to Mayor Cecil Chase, pointed out that "as the pollution problem in our fair city grows more intense, we, the children living in Escanaba, must then step in to offer our help. If we are to inherit and live in this country, we first have to clean it and our cities. With this thought in mind, a group of us seventh graders hope to form a committee which would be called 'The Children's and Teenagers' Clean-Up Committee.' But, before we proceed, we would like the approval and the support of you and the city board (council). Please respond to this letter soon, because the cause is urgent."

Mayor Chase, responding, was not hesitant: "Pollution, Barbara," he said in part, "is a problem that affects all people, young and old, and all of the people should be concerned about doing everything in their power to try and reduce pollution."

"I speak for all members of the Escanaba City Council when I say that we support wholeheartedly the committee that your class intends to form . . ."

Wonder if the kids might introduce an air ordinance?

MAITRE D'

Key To New York City Returns To Panthers

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Maybe Mayor John Lindsay of New York City asked for it. Last September he gave a golden key to his town to Bernadette Devlin, the personable North Irish girl who came here to raise money for the poor in her part of the world. Apparently nobody told the Mayor that Bernadette, besides being a humanitarian (we can give her that credit), was, by her own account, "a militant Socialist aiming at the creation of an Irish Workers Republic." No crime in being that, of course, provided you don't advocate violence. But the majority of the Irish, whether they are for a united Ireland or not, aren't exactly clamoring to see the middle class plowed under in either Ulster or Eire. This is why they didn't rush to shower Bernadette with gold.

As things have turned out,

Mayor Lindsay has been slapped in the face for his largesse in trying to help Bernadette Devlin make an impression on the New York Irish. The golden key to the city came back to New York recently in the hands of Eamon McCann, a co-worker of Miss Devlin's, who, besides being for civil rights (an estimable position anywhere), is very much of a believer in a workers' state for Ireland. McCann proceeded to hand the key to a member of the Black Panthers, along with a mimeographed message which he said came from Miss Devlin. The message read: "To all these people, to whom this city and this country belong, I return what is rightfully theirs, this symbol of the freedom of New York."

This is a minor irony, to be sure. The more important consideration is that the transfer of the key to the Black Panthers lends solid support to the contentions of those who think there is a loose "international" (not a conspiracy, but a linkage through "understanding" working to further an extremist struggle all over the world.

The semantics of the "international" are interesting. Bernadette Devlin isn't for "violence," but she did throw rocks (she says so herself in her autobiography) at the police in the Londonderry—or Derry—Bogside, and she is for "defending homes against police attacks." The Black Panthers aren't for violence, either, but they have engaged in what they call "shoot-outs" with the police. The implication here is that the police are just another "gang."

Long before there was any loose-knit "understanding" between the "People's Democracy" group in North Ireland (Ulster) and the Black Panthers in New York and Che Guevara's heirs in Latin America, Marxist theoreticians split hairs about the role of "violence" in ushering in the "workers' state." The proletarian, so the old-time theoreticians used to say, would welcome "peaceful change." But "no owning class," so they continued, would ever give up its power without making a fight to retain it. The "owners" would necessarily use violence to suppress the workers, thereby justifying a counter-violence in "defense."

Such an analysis, whether it is old-style Marxism or new-style "people's democracy," denies the social contract theory of government under which the monopoly of coercive power is vested by legally enacted law in a police and court system subject to direction by freely elected officials. Whatever one may think of Mayor John Lindsay, he is not in favor of using his police power arbitrarily to invade Black Panther homes. And whatever one may think of the government of North Ireland, it has had the good grace recently to remove property and wealth qualifications on the franchise, which means that members of the Catholic majority in Londonderry can now take hold of their destinies.

But Eamon McCann and Bernadette Devlin aren't interested in civil rights save as a means to promote their "revolution." Nor are the Black Panthers in the United States interested in normal democratic policies. They are out, as the advertisement of one of their books proclaims, to "bridge the gap between revolutionary rhetoric and action." To give any of them the keys to our cities is to invite our own destruction.

It is time that members of this community ask themselves whether making the present public school system a monopoly is not a mistake and that they begin to consider ways to encourage free enterprise in education. They can do this only by providing some tax assistance for all children, making parental freedom of choice an option which can be exercised by the poor as well as by those of better than average income.

Public school administrators and State Legislators are working to get educational financing off the ballot. Should their efforts be put aside and a vote of the people be cast on all educational issues? Should the whole educational reform package along with the right of teachers to strike be placed on the ballot? No. Let's let our elected officials carry out their responsibilities.

Rodger T. Murray
1214 S. 15th St.
Escanaba, Mich.

(Editor's Note: To assume that a 33 per cent increase in enrollment in public schools, should private schools be closed, would result in a 33 per cent increase in education costs is debatable. Also, because state aid to public schools is based largely on enrollment, shift of private school students to public schools would result in a total dollar increase in state aid to individual districts. A reduction of 15 per cent (on a per child basis and not total payment) could be accomplished only by Legislative change of the distribution formula. Under the present formula, a larger enrollment could actually bring an improvement in state aid per child to the Escanaba Area public schools.)

OPENING LEAD QUIZ

The bidding has been One Heart on your right, Three Hearts on your left, Four Hearts on your right. Which card would you lead in each of the following five hands?

1. ♠983 ♥AJ4 ♦Q86 ♣AJ72
2. ♠K9742 ♥K53 ♦KQJ6 ♣5
3. ♠Q105 ♥785 ♦A54 ♣KJ82
4. ♠A8743 ♥942 ♦7 ♣J753
5. ♠QJ6 ♥A84 ♠986 ♣9874

1. Nine of spades. The bidding indicates that the opponents have about 26 high-card points. Consequently, there is very little left for your partner to have in the way of high cards. He is unlikely to have more than 2 or 3 points.

You have a good chance of scoring two trump tricks and a club, and also a reasonable chance of scoring a diamond or another club trick in addition, provided you don't jeopardize that chance by leading either of these suits. By elimination, therefore, you lead a spade because it is unlikely to do your side any harm.

2. King of diamonds. Here you attack the suit most likely to be declarer's weak spot. The aim is to establish two diamond winners and take two other tricks elsewhere.

An opening club lead is not recommended because partner is unlikely to have an ace opposite your 12 high-card points. Perhaps a club shift later on will succeed, but establishing diamond tricks right away takes precedence in your overall aim to defeat the contract.

3. Seven of hearts. You lead a trump largely because there is too much danger of costing yourself a trick by any other lead. It may also happen that declarer's ruffing power will be effectively reduced later on by additional trump leads.

4. Seven of diamonds. With only 5 points, you must count on partner for 9 or 10 points if the contract is to be defeated.

You are unlikely to score four tricks on straight power; it is more realistic to expect to win three tricks with high cards and a fourth trick with the aid of a diamond ruff. Even if the ruff never develops, the lead may force declarer to draw trumps at once to prevent it and in that way cut down on his own ruffing power.

5. Queen of spades. The best prospect is to play partner for the king or ace of spades and some side values. The less aggressive lead of either a diamond or a club may cause you to lose valuable time in the race to develop tricks. Of course, there is some danger connected with the spade lead, but a club or diamond lead would be even more dangerous.

12 Peace Corps Members Ousted For Dissenting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve volunteers have been thrown out of the Peace Corps during the past four months because of their public opposition to U.S. foreign policy, especially the Vietnam War.

Joseph H. Blatchford, Peace Corps director, says the volunteer agency will continue its policy of permitting dissent but not if it is done publicly in a host nation.

"The volunteer can express his dissent," he told newsmen Wednesday evening. "But he can't exploit his position."

Blatchford said volunteers whose tours of duty were terminated since Oct. 30 include: three in Turkey, two in Ethiopia, two in Thailand and five in Ecuador. He also said a staff member in Turkey was fired for the same reasons.

None was identified.

Father-Son Relation Irks Mother Of Three

Dear Ann Landers: How much physical affection is considered proper between father and son? We have three boys but the oldest, now ten, is the one I am writing about.

Todd is clearly his father's favorite. It is not unusual for the boy to sit on his father's lap and watch TV, or if Todd isn't sitting on his father's lap he goes over at five minute intervals and kisses him — sometimes on the lips.

Todd would like to sleep with his Daddy every night. I permit it only once a week or so, as a special favor. Sometimes when I say no the boy goes on a crying jag and his dad kisses and carries him to quiet him down.

I'm becoming worried about so much physical contact. My husband says I am crazy. Am I? We both read you every day. Please say something. — St. Petersburg, Florida

Dear St. Pete: A 10-year-old boy should not be kissing his father on the lips at five-minute intervals. And no child over three years of age, boy or girl, should be allowed to displace a parent in the marriage bed.

Father-son affection is beautiful, but what you describe sounds unhealthy. I recommend counseling for both Todd and your husband. Immediately.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a few words to the fellow who owns an appliance store? He complained because so many relatives and friends took advantage of him. Everybody wanted a wholesale price. He said he couldn't make a living doing business like that.

The best solution I ever heard for the problem was this: My dad owned a grocery store. We had a pack of free-loading relatives and a world of friends. My father was a sweet-tempered sort and people who didn't know better sometimes tried to take advantage of him. One day a neighbor came in and wanted to buy a case of canned soup. He asked for a special price because he was a "friend." My dad replied, "Sorry, I have to make my living off my friends because my enemies don't buy here. They go to my competitors."

Pass it on, please. — Louisiana

Dear Lou: Here 'tis. Thanks for a peasy rejoinder.

Dear Ann Landers: My ex-girl friend wrote to you several weeks ago. She asked you if she should marry me. Your answer caused her to break the engagement. I think you told her I was not a suitable candidate because I was "unsettled" and had no plans for the future. Since that time, I have decided to go into law enforcement and my future is assured.

I hope you are happy with the damage you have done. When my girl dumped me, I couldn't keep my mind on my work and I lost my job. I also became involved in a car accident and it nearly cost me my life. Your advice stinks. — Rapid City "Bum"

Dear Bum Rap: I may have done that girl a bigger favor than I realized. You sound like a crybaby who will probably go through life blaming your failures on others. Grow up before you offer yourself to the next girl, Bub.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

STUDENTS BUILD SCHOOL

CUZCO, Peru (AP)—School children in the mountain village of Chaupisuyo were tired of attending classes in the open. So they went to military authorities at a nearby base and asked for building materials. With guidance from an elderly man in the village, the students built their own school.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Viaw of Milwaukee were guests of honor at a party given at the Chicken Shack on the occasion of their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Tables were attractively decorated with flowers, and Mrs. Viaw received several orchids.

Red Cross home nursing classes will open at the Health Center, Webster annex building, with Mrs. Dorothy Boyle, R.N. in charge. Registration for the classes is to be made with Mrs. Vera Bergman, telephone 97.

50 Years Ago

Another big crowd gathered at the Coliseum rink to enjoy the fancy and trick skating of Packey McFarlane and witness the mile race between McFarlane and William Egan, of this city. The Milwaukee boy found Egan with just a little too much speed for him, the local lad winning by one lap. The judges were John Desmond of this city and Bert Cons, of Munising.

One of the most enthusiastic meetings held by the Escanaba Gun and Game Club in recent years, was held at the clubhouse. Officers were elected for the ensuing year, the past discussed, the future planned and a lot of enthusiasm and "pep" generated.

It is estimated that through women coming into possession of the ballot in this state, the voting strength has been increased practically 50 per cent and this means that approximately 6,000 votes will be cast in this city next November.

Elegant Southern Colonial

By ANDY LANG

There are a few houses these days which can boast of three bow windows. This one has just that. These symbols of Early American elegance have been added to a house which already possesses many details ordinarily found only in those of the luxury class. For example, the front elevation (on which two of the bow windows are located) is framed by a two-story-high Southern Colonial portico with four well-proportioned wood posts arranged symmetrically about the center hall entrance. The floor plan carries out the traditional layout of typical center hall design, with one notable exception. Architect Herman H. York has located the family room in the area normally reserved for the dining room. Accessible from the foyer, the family room is open-planned to the kitchen and dinette area, which in a sense is a throw-back to the days of the huge family kitchen with its large fireplace.

MAJESTIC GRACE of authentic Southern Colonial is immediately evident in this two-story, four-bedroom house, with four wood posts stretching high up to roof line.

Another departure is the over-sized foyer, designed in keeping with the desire of most home owners for an impressive front entrance hall. The fireplace is located to give an immediate point of interest from the foyer. Providing direct access from the family room to the rear patio is accomplished by the room's open relationship to the dinette. Instead of a large dinette window, sliding glass doors give direct travel between the family room and the outdoors. There's a huge garden storage space of 114 square feet at the rear of the garage, with a door to the outside. Two other storage areas also are in the two-car garage.

On the second floor, four bedrooms and two bathrooms, arranged in a rectangle to minimize costs, surround the center upstairs hall. Care has been taken to provide ample wall space for beds and furniture.

The hall bathroom is in a split plan with two lavatories. The master bedroom has a private bath with a stall shower.

Although this house is not large (57' by 32' including the garage), it contains all the elements needed for complete family living. The rooms are of sufficient size to be in balance with the four bedrooms, which may mean occupancy by five or more persons.

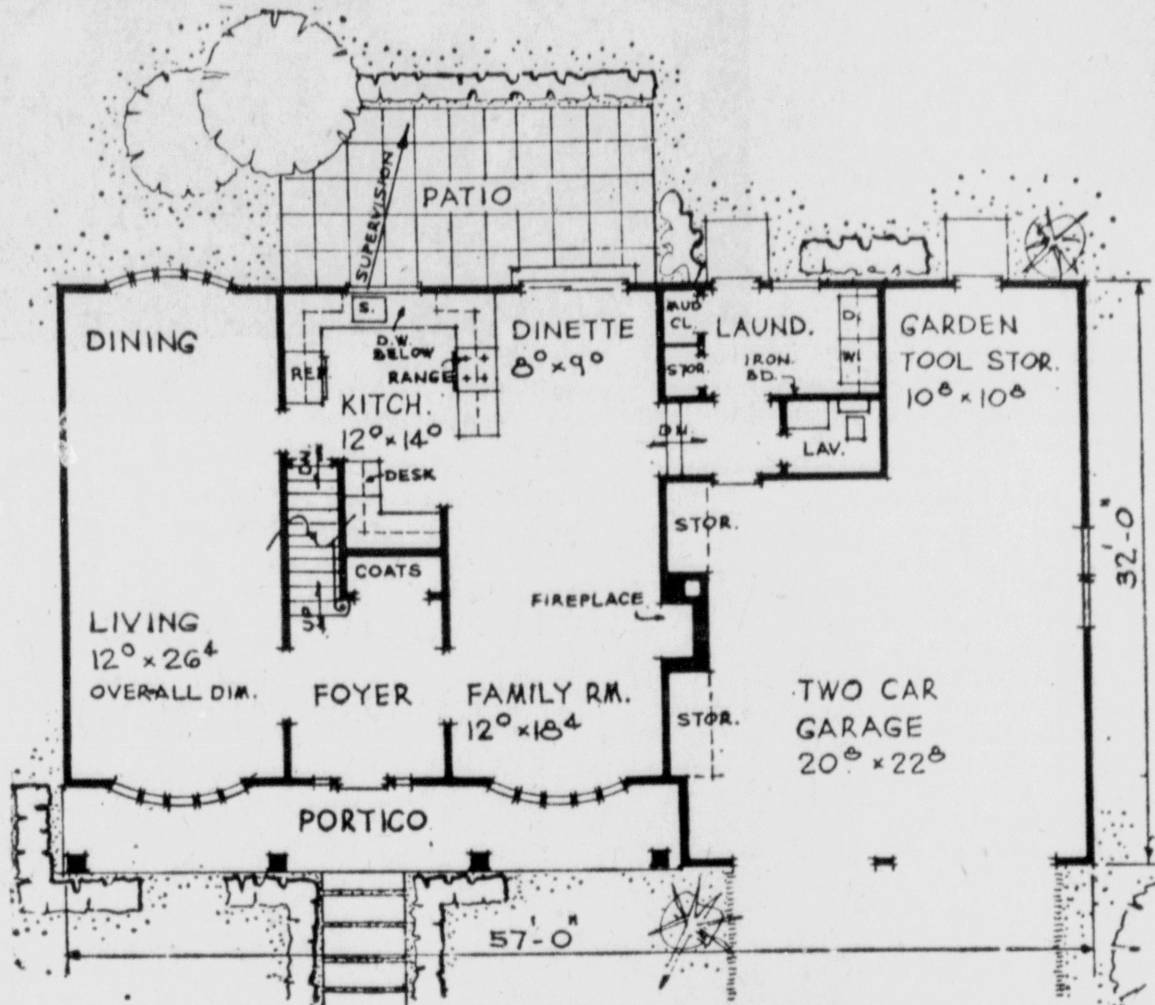

A full cellar under the main rectangle provides additional storage. The cellar is reached by stairs from the kitchen.

On the exterior, the side walls are treated in the traditional manner and detail of early houses, with such things as narrow bevel, corner boards, multi-paned windows, paneled shutters, classic pedimented doorway, carriage lamps and moulded cornices. A monochromatic color scheme is recommended, with accent only on the front doorway and shutters.

If the property allows, the garage doors can be located at the side instead of the front. This will in no way affect the over-all exterior appearance, merely substituting windows for doors.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

S-36 STATISTICS

Design S-36 is a two-story house in the Southern Colonial motif. On the first floor are a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, family room and foyer, totaling 918 square feet. To the right of the basic house are a two-car garage with unusually large storage space and a laundry - mud room and lavatory. Upstairs are four bedrooms and two bathrooms, also totaling 918 square feet. Overall dimensions of 57' by 32' include the garage.

FLOOR PLANS: Open planning features first-floor layout, with both the living room-dining room combination and the family room-dinette alignment going from the front of the house to the rear, with the kitchen, foyer and stairways between. FIREPLACED FAMILY ROOM, dinette and kitchen flow into each other, not only to create illusion of greater space but to provide more actual space.

Deborah Sue Fodor, Dale Robitaille Exchange Wedding Vows Recently

Mrs. Dale Robitaille (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Deborah Sue Fodor and Dale Barton Robitaille, both of Escanaba, exchanged wedding vows during a double ring ceremony performed Saturday, March 7 at St. Patrick's Church in Escanaba.

Officiating at the service at 2 p. m. was the Rev. Charles Carmody. During the service, the bride placed a single pink rose at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

Symbolic Candles

Also placed on the altar were three symbolic candles and during the wedding ceremony, the two smaller candles, one for the bride and one for the bridegroom, were lit. At the close of the ceremony the bride extinguished the two candles and lit the large one, signifying Unity—the two are now one.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fodor, 526 S. 17th St. and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Esther Robitaille, 1115 4th Ave. S.

Bridal Aides

Maid of honor for the bride was Carol Jean Knauf of Bark River and bridesmaid was Diane M. Robinette of Kalamazoo. Serving as best man for his brother was Carlton Larsen of Escanaba and groomsmen were Bill Fodor, Jr. of Escanaba, brother of the bride. Performing ushering duties were Larry Krause of Rapid River and Willard Hogle of Racine, Wis.

Faillie, Lace

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of candlelight faillie fashioned with a Venise lace bodice, long full sleeves and a detachable chapel train accented by a large back bow.

A lace petal bandeau headpiece trimmed with pearls and crystals held her elbow length, triple tiered veil of candlelight illusion and she carried a bouquet of pink and red sweetheart roses with white carnations and ivory ribbons.

Moss Green

The bridal aides were attired in floor length moss green frocks of nylon corded organza styled with high-rise bodices, Mandarin necklines and long full sleeves. Bow headpieces with matching Maline veiling completed their attire and they carried straw baskets filled with spring flowers with ivy and moss green ribbon trim.

The bride's mother selected a beige knit dress with muted blue accents and beige accessories and Mrs. Robitaille wore a blue crepe dress with a lace overlay and bone accessories. Both mothers pinned cymbidium orchid corsages. Mrs. Rose Salvage of Chicago and Mrs. Jennie Larsen of Escanaba, grandmothers of the bride and bridegroom were also presented cymbidium orchid corsages.

The reception was held from 4:30 to 8 p. m. followed by a dance and assisting with duties were Mary Kay Bink and Mary Ann Sinclair.

The newlyweds will make their home at 309 S. 9th St. The bride is a graduate of Holy Name High School and attended Kenosha Technical Institute, Kenosha, Wis. She is presently attending Bay de Noc College. Mr. Robitaille is a graduate of Escanaba Area High School, served with the U. S. # Airport Factor In Fire Safety Goals

The up-grading of Escanaba's fire fighting equipment, including purchase of equipment that will be effective in controlling airplane crash fires, is recommended to the City Council by City Manager George Harvey.

A report critical of the city's equipment for fire safety at the airport was made earlier this winter by a representative of the Airline Pilots Association.

Today the city manager reported that B. Victor Hewes, chairman of the fire and rescue committee of the Airline Pilots Association had contacted him "relative to fire and rescue equipment at the airport." In connection with these needs, Harvey suggested:

"Perhaps the Airline Pilots Association and the Airline should be assisting financially in the acquisition of fire fighting equipment at the airport. I intend to suggest this to both groups," he advised the Council.

The Escanaba City Airport serves both North Central Airlines and Trans-Michigan Airline. The latter began service to Escanaba last year. North Central continues to show passenger volume gains here, with 1,857 on-off passengers in February. North Central's total for the month was 182.

The city manager in his report to the Council cited the deficiencies of the present fire safety mobile equipment and recommended their correction.

The city's 1954 American LaFrance fire truck is in need of overhaul and the manager said he will ask the Council to authorize $3,000 from the equipment fund to finance the work.

The city's ladder service truck of 1938 vintage, which carries an assortment of ladders and other necessary fire fighting equipment, is in "very poor" mechanical condition. Brakes and lighting are inadequate, steering control is unsafe, and parts have to be specially manufactured.

"I seriously recommend that a purchase fund be started in this year's budget so this truck can be replaced within the next three or four years," Harvey advised the Council.

The 1949 Dodge Power Wagon designed for fighting grass and brush fires is in poor mechanical condition, and of this piece of equipment the manager said.

"I recommend replacing this truck immediately with a unit equipped with water pumping capabilities and foam application equipment. This truck could be used for both grass and brush fires as well as flammable liquid and airplane crash fires.

"A truck to meet these requirements would cost approximately $15,000."

The city's 1954 American LaFrance 1,000 gallon per minute pumper is 16 years old but in good mechanical condition but has never had a major overhaul. This work, which would cost an estimated $3,000, is recommended by the manager.

Angry Whites Eye Busing Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — For angry white parents, the Charlotte, N.C., school case pending before the Supreme Court is a pivotal test of how much busing they will have to bear for integration.

For anxious blacks, the test is whether appeals courts will block determined district judges who insist the Constitution commands a racial balance in public schools.

The Supreme Court's options are limited at this preliminary stage, though the case could flower into a milestone decision eventually.

At the moment, the court has to decide whether to (1) stay out at this point, leaving a big bus plan stalled at least until the U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., holds a hearing April 9, or, (2) order U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan's computer-assisted plan into effect immediately.

The scope of McMillan's desegregation order, and the vehement protests it has evoked, gives this case top legal priority.

The judge's busing command could put 14,000 additional children, by his estimate, or 23,000, by school officials', on the road.

His action, temporarily blocked by the appeals court, is significant, too, in its marked contrast to judicial wavering on desegregation across the land.

Brazil Officials Agree To Terms In Kidnap Plot

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Brazilian authorities have agreed to exchange five political prisoners for the Japanese consul-general kidnapped Wednesday and are awaiting word about which five the terrorists want handed over.

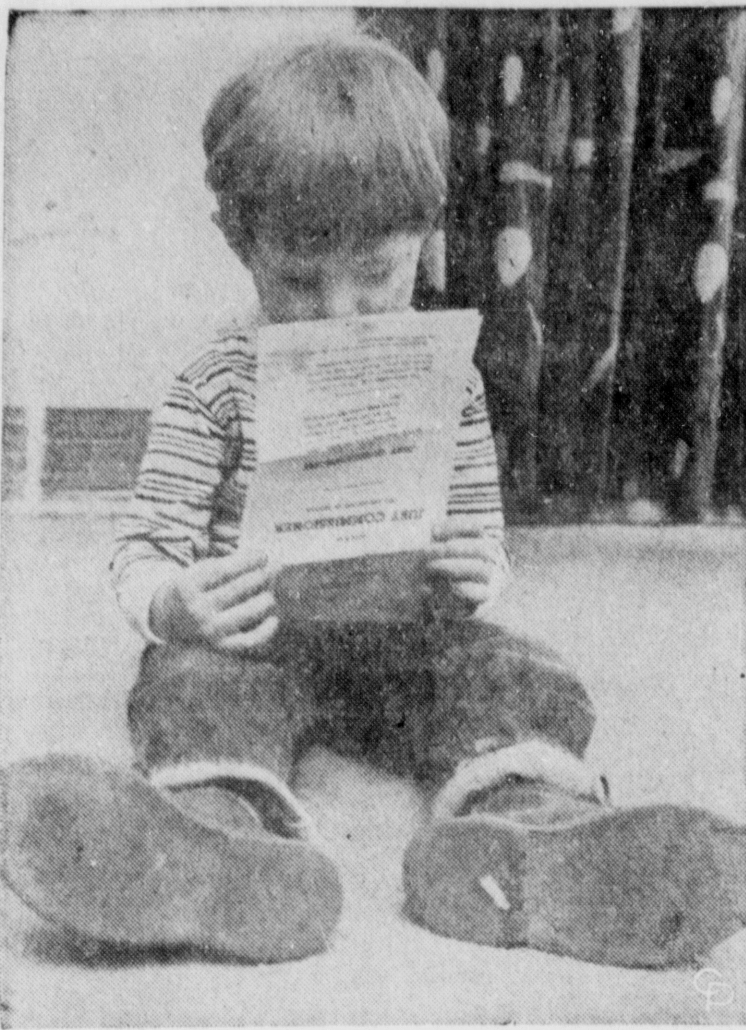

A government communique Thursday afternoon said it would accede to the demand from the kidnapers, who identified themselves as members of the Popular Vanguard terror group, "so long as the kidnapers can prove that the consul is alive and in good health."

There are an estimated 2,000 political prisoners.

Soon after the government issued its communique, a second letter from the captive consul, Nobuo Okuchi, 56, repeated that he was well and expressed appreciation that the government had agreed to ransom him.

To Open Bids

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department will open bids in Lansing March 26 on 18 highway construction and maintenance projects in 14 counties costing an estimated $9.9 million. Major projects include the rebuilding of 1.4 miles of M 153 in Wayne County, estimated cost $4.3 million; erosion control along Lake Michigan at the south city limits of St. Joseph, estimated cost $2.1 million, and rebuilding nearly a mile of U.S. 24 in Oakland County, estimated cost $1 million.

JURY CALL — Jimmy Sedbrook, 3½, scans (upside down) a jury questionnaire in Denver, Colo., after receiving a call for jury duty. He got one when he was 2 years old, too.

GOP Hopes To Close Banking Loophole

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, invoking an unnoted loophole it gave itself two weeks ago, has asked Congress to take a new approach to finding illegal money in foreign bank accounts.

It wants to give the Treasury secretary absolute power to decide what bank records are kept.

Eugene T. Rossides, an assistant Treasury secretary, submitted the administration's bill without notice Thursday to the House Banking Committee. The panel has been considering another bill submitted by Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., and opposed by the administration after some initial stumbling.

Patman said the administration bill was an effort by Rossides to "gut the objectives of the bill before, accommodate all the desires of the financial community and protect the ego" of Rossides and the administration. He set another meeting for next Tuesday.

The measure, submitted after Treasury and committee staffs could not agree on ways to amend Patman's bill, follows the outline Rossides presented in testimony March 2, but not the way it was interpreted then.

Despite a brief sentence saying the administration wanted "a statutory framework providing maximum flexibility to the secretary of the Treasury or his delegate to issue regulations implementing the legislation," Patman and everyone else apparently thought he wanted several specific record-keeping requirements included.

Treasury's objection has been that Patman's bill—endorsed by 18 of the committee's 33 members—would be too hard on banks because it would make them photograph every incoming and outgoing check.

Instead, Rossides recommended requiring copies of just certain types of foreign transactions, most of them more than $1,000.

But as it turned out, he was recommending giving the secretary of the Treasury authority to require copying "any types of records or evidence which he determines are likely to have a high degree of usefulness in criminal, tax or regulatory investigations or proceedings."

School Giveaway Baffles Police

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police, called to a north Philadelphia high school, arrived to find nine teen-agers carting out desks and chairs.

The janitor said "it was okay to help ourselves."

The janitor, William Barron, 42, admitted he told the youngsters, ages 12 to 14, they could take the furniture, police said.

"The city and the school board don't care what's going on in the schools," Barron told police.

Police recovered five desks and 10 chairs in a house-to-house search of the neighborhood recently. Four desks and four chairs still were missing.

Barron was charged with larceny by an employee.

State Police issued traffic tickets Thursday to David Moersch, 323 S. 10th St., Escanaba, speeding; Donald Smith, Box 148, Perkins, speeding, and Leo Kulki, Rock, speeding.

Escanaba police have issued a traffic court notice to Albert L. Bonifas, 203 N. 19th St., excessive motor noise.

District Scout Banquet May 14

Red Buck District Scouters in a meeting Thursday night learned of plans for the annual district recognition banquet scheduled May 14.

Mrs. Emerson Gage selected a committee to assist her with final banquet preparations. All district scouters will be invited. Details will be announced at the April Roundtable meeting in Gladstone's James Jones School, Thursday, April 9, 1970, at 7 p.m.

Reservations for the dinner meeting ($1.25) should be sent to Delbert Lorensen, 1711 Montana Ave., Gladstone.

Emerson Gage presented a Roundtable Commissioner patch to Commissioner Bill Huebler and introduced Ray Bydalek, new district commissioner for the Red Buck District. Mrs. Gage presented the National Summertime Activity Award to Dale Kivi, institutional representative of Pack 430 of Ford River.

Preliminary plans for this Spring's Camporee May 15-17 near Gulliver were reviewed and changes in the Cub Scout Program Planning Conference were outlined by Mrs. Gage. She noted that the Conference should be held by each pack in April so that a full summer program will be planned and preparations for the fall can be made in the summer.

The Cub leaders plan to hold roundtable meetings during the summer months to assist with this planning. An outdoor roundtable meeting will be planned for August.

All Cub leaders were urged to attend the Cub Leaders Training Session, Saturday, April 11, 1970, at the First United Presbyterian Church in Escanaba. Registration will be at 9:30 a.m.

Pack 430 of Ford River was the host for the evening.

Patrolman Slain, Suspect Quizzed

DETROIT (AP) — Police continue to question a man in connection with the shotgun slaying of a Detroit patrolman during a shootout in an apartment building Wednesday.

Under questioning is Alonzo Burford, 28, held on a bad check charge brought last June 5. Burford stood mute at his arraignment Thursday and faces preliminary hearing March 17.

Four other men taken into custody following the shooting were released because of insufficient evidence.

William Slattery, 24, was killed Wednesday when he and his partner, Charles Brown, 32, went to the apartment to check a report that stolen property was stored there.

Another patrolman, Charles McEwen, 26, was wounded while responding to a call for assistance.

UPCAP Panel To 'Evaluate'

MARQUETTE — Creation of a "Blue Ribbon" committee on Evaluation and Organization headed by Ray Gummerson, of Michigan State University Extension Service, Marquette, headed the agenda of the quarterly meeting of the Upper Peninsula Committee For Area Progress (UPCAP).

Aims of the new committee announced by Harold Dettman, St. Ignace, UPCAP chairman, will be to discuss the issues raised by the old Evaluation Committee and probe the possibility of differentiating the present regional planning function and the service function of UPCAP.

It was pointed out that in terms of the reconstitution of UPCAP, it may mean that the regional planning commission would have one set of functions and that the yet to be created non-profit corporation would have another set. The new committee also will evolve some procedure for initiating discussion along these lines within the delegate body.

Other members of the new Evaluation and Organization Committee are Fr. Louis Cappo, Escanaba; James Bourque, Sault Ste. Marie; Mrs. Geraldine DeFant, Marquette; Harold Vanlerberghe, Escanaba; Frank Hoholik, Manistique; Daniel Bonetti, Iron River; Ralph Nobel, Houghton, and Arne Ervast, Calumet.

In other action during the morning business session, the delegate body, numbering over 80, approved a proposal calling for the establishment of a career development program for non-professional Community Action staff members throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Basically, the proposal requests funds which will provide money to enable low-income, non-professional Community Action Agency employees to develop their careers. Specifically, funds are requested for college tuition and fees and for necessary travel expense and baby-sitting costs. In addition, money is requested for a full-time program coordinator and a half-time secretary who would become members of the UPCAP staff.

Delegates also heard a financial report by Fred Hahne, Manistique, treasurer; remarks by Lee D. Meyers, Escanaba, executive director and an evaluation report by Gummerson.

'Young Americans' TV Show Big Hit

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — People are always asking for positive, affirmative entertainment and they got it in spades Thursday night. "The Young Americans" on ABC was a rehearsed sing-in by a scrubbed, lively group of young performers as American as apple pie.

It was so upbeat, good-humored and enthusiastic that it projected a reassuring picture — none of that long-haired disenchantment or protest in the hour.

The producers added gray-haired Lorne Greene for the mature viewers and he contributed a couple of musical numbers. There was the Committee for Comedy Relief, but they left their satiric material at home in favor of broad humor. And then there was Tiny Tim who just didn't seem to fit anywhere.

The "Young Americans" are a group of almost 40 boys and girls, and while they are attractive, there are just too many of them to be comfortably contained, much less identified, on the small screen.

Producers of television films are tending to shoot them on location these days, and while the locations often give the production an extra dimension and validity, the real scenery and local color often divert and slow down the action.

In "Hunters Are for Killing," the TV film feature which CBS shot in the wine country of northern California and broadcast Thursday night, the topography and vineyards shared star billing with Burt Reynolds, the hero.

It was a suspense story about the adopted son of a rich vintner who returns home after serving time on a manslaughter conviction growing out of an automobile crash. His return sets off a chain reaction involving his foster-father; his girl who has married someone else during his imprisonment, and a wrong-headed police chief.

The ex-convict was shown to be innocent and the show was climaxed by a chilling and realistic manhunt that carried the pursued and pursuers through the grape-growing lands.

Reynolds has a tense, taut style that builds interest even when the plot is not moving clearly. Melvyn Douglas was effective playing the father, and Martin Balsam was thoroughly despicable as the vengeance-hungry cop. As these low-budget, quickly made film efforts go, this rated about par.

NBC will present five solid hours of special programs on Sunday, starting with its annual rerun of "The Wizard of Oz" at 6 p.m. EST. It will be followed by a two-hour English production of "David Copperfield," and that will be followed by an original drama, "To Confuse an Angel," with Lee J. Cobb.

Meanwhile, there is a documentary on American railroads on ABC at 7, and Ed Sullivan's hour will be an ice show.

Agnew Now Pride Of Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told big-money Republicans that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, "the man nobody knew," is the pride of the administration, the most effective fund-raising speaker ever to hold the office.

Nixon, once vice president himself, praised Agnew for his off-stage performance in the councils of government, too.

"There were those who said when I chose him, 'Well, that proves the new President doesn't know how to choose men,'" Nixon said. "Well, if that is the kind of mistakes I've made, I'm proud of this one, believe me."

Agnew's emergence as the party's star political performer was among the themes woven into the campaign-year oratory at a black tie dinner that raised nearly $2 million for the GOP recently.

Millage Vote

BAY CITY (AP) — A request for 15 extra mills for school operation, defeated by voters Tuesday, will go back on the ballot for a June 8 vote.

Voters defeated the millage request 11,663 to 4,111. School board officials have warned that unless additional funds are raised, they may have to shorten school days, eliminate 200 teachers and make other educational curtailments.

'Throwaways' Going Back To Pop Firms

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP) — A group of high school students who say they are "sick and tired of having our lakes and streams and roads cluttered with useless refuse," has begun a campaign to collect throwaway soft drink bottles and mail them back to beverage makers.

So far the group says it has mailed over 100 packages, with from one to 28 bottles, back to 12 leading soft drink manufacturers. The packages are accompanied by pleas that the firms stop selling pop in non-returnable containers.

"I am very mad about the way you have invented such a stupid thing as the so-called disposable bottle," 16-year-old Leesa Wittus wrote in a letter to Ben H. Wells, president of 7-Up in St. Louis.

Wells, the only soft drink executive who has replied to the students, said "The returnable bottle, Leesa, is not the answer."

"Companies are doing research 'on containers that can more readily and economically be disposed of but," he said, "this will be a long time coming." The public, Wells said, "wanted convenience more than they wanted the saving that could be enjoyed by taking the bottle back to the outlet and getting the deposit on it." Spearheading the campaign is the Environmental Quality Club at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills, a wealthy Detroit suburb.

The group organized in January after talking about pollution during lectures on Thoreau, who wrote about uncluttered, smog-free Walden Pond.

Students mailed most of their protest packages of cans and last week during a "return of the No-Returns Day" at school. They walked to classes wearing gas masks and disposable surgical masks to dramatize alarm at pollution. Antipollution posters — "Be Kind to the Earth, She's Your MOTHER," "What's Your Solution to Pollution?" dotted the school walls.

The students have composed lyrics to popular songs and tour English classes twice a week singing against pesticide poisoning, auto emissions and general pollution.

Next month the club sponsors a "pollution teach-in" with college and university professors.

After that, students have scheduled a 20-mile "walk-a-thon" with "aunts, uncles, private citizens" paying them for every mile walked to collect money for organizations fighting pollution.

Male Telephone Operator Joins 35 Office Girls

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When you dial "O" for operator and a man answers, don't hang up.

You will be speaking to Philip Grimes, only male operator currently employed by the Pacific Telephone Co.

Grimes, 22, and mustached, has been on the job two weeks at the Steiner Street central office, along with 35 girls.

He likes it, and the other operators like having him around, but he says some callers giggle or snort when he answers. Some ask, "Is there a strike on or something?"

Grimes said he is no pioneer or crusader. He needed a job, saw an advertisement for operators and applied.

Under the Civil Rights Act, sex discrimination in hiring is forbidden, so he was put to work.

Grimes said it is "interesting," but he does not intend to make it a career.

Church With Women Ushers Latest Thing

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — In a downtown church in Minneapolis, women now serve as ushers, showing people to their seats and taking up the collection—a role traditionally reserved to men.

It was "time for a change," says the Rev. Francis J. Fleming, pastor of St. Olaf Roman Catholic church.

And the men seem to approve. "They enjoy it," says a parish secretary, Pat T. Kach. "Most of the ushers are attractive young working women."

Father Fleming says there was a shortage of males available for the ushering task, so the long-standing practice of using only men needed to go, along with other customs that have come to impede rather than enhance worship.

Women, in an increasing number of other congregations, now also serve as lectors, or readers, for Scripture lessons, as education directors, choirmasters and song leaders for worship services.

On other levels, too, women are taking on broader functions and more influential positions in American church life, beyond their old-time work in special women's groups—but they're still barred from some roles.

Cynthia Wedel, the president of the National Council of Churches and the first woman to hold the post, says:

"At one time, the role of holding bazaars and church suppers fit the role of women in general, but today women are better educated and they want more significant tasks to do."

Mrs. Wedel says the continuing restrictions are "frustrating for many women who want to be considered on the basis of their ability rather than their sex, and when this frustration comes to the surface in action, it's all to the good. That's how things begin to change."

And the changes, as well as the surfacing frustrations, were in considerable evidence.

In Detroit recently, a young nun, Sister Mary Corrine Bart, succeeded a bishop as the Catholic archdiocese' chief representative of religious orders, including 4,000 monks and nuns. Says she:

"There's a movement in the church of women taking more of the decision-making roles where ever they are qualified."

The Vatican 1970 yearbook lists, for the first time, six positions filled by women. There are 66 women employed at the Vatican.

Women serve increasingly on national church boards and agencies and on local church policy-making groups, both Protestant and Catholic, including growing number of Episcopal vestries and some Lutheran councils, which once excluded them.

However, men still dominate the parish governing units. Male delegates also far outnumber women at denominational conventions, with women excluded from some Lutheran national bodies. For the first time this year, under a constitution change, women will be eligible for seats at the Episcopal convention.

Although Methodist, American Baptist and Presbyterian bodies admit women to the ordained ministry, few are on the clergy lists, and they're barred from it in Episcopal, Lutheran, Southern Baptist, Catholic and Orthodox churches in this country.

Oil Slick Still Threat To Refuge

OFF THE LOUISIANA COAST (AP) — Brisk winds blowing seaward brought hope today that a massive oil slick might spare coastal oyster beds and a wildlife refuge which is a winter home for hundreds of thousands of seafowl.

The slick escaped encircling booms and barges Wednesday when high seas broke up the protective chain which had been containing most of it.

The oil was spewing from wells on a Chevron Oil Co. platform, 30 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, where a month-long fire was blasted by dynamite Tuesday.

A company spokesman said the fire would be reignited "if oil keeps moving to the oyster beds." The company also was ready if necessary to frighten the threatened birds away with explosive charges.

Education Board Suggesting Funds For School Books

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's public and private school children could receive free, state-financed textbooks if the Legislature goes along with a plan approved by the State Board of Education.

The program could cost an estimated $25 million — based on $10 each for the state's some 2.5 million school children.

Board members agreed to ask the Legislature to earmark $5 million to start the optional program. Local school districts would be asked to provide matching funds if they entered the program.

The board was told there presently is a confusion of textbook plans. Some districts pay for all school textbooks, some pay for some and others have the parents pay all textbook costs.

A recent survey showed about 40 per cent of the state's school districts provide free textbooks, the board was told.

Under the proposed textbook plan, the total cost would reach an estimated $10 million the first year and $3.75 million each of the next four years.

Under the proposal, the state's cost share would be $1,875,000 a year after the first $5 million grant to start the program.

Royals, Rockets Tie Point Mark

By The Associated Press
Tom Van Arsdale was only 19 and a pro basketball career was still a dream in 1962 when Philadelphia and New York set a National Basketball Association scoring record for two teams with 316 points.

Well, Van Arsdale isn't dreaming anymore and Thursday night he helped turn San Diego's evening into a nightmare, scoring 36 points, to lead Cincinnati to a 165-151 victory—tying that 1962 mark.

The Royals also broke a club scoring record set earlier this year against Atlanta.

The contest at Cincinnati was the only NBA action Thursday night. In the American Basketball Association, New Orleans stopped Denver 113-105 and Kentucky tripped Los Angeles 117-115.

Connie Dierking added 34 to Van Arsdale's production as the Royals streaked to a 17-4 lead at the opening gun and lead throughout.

San Diego cut the margin to 13 points late in the third period, 122-109, but the Royals stalled the charge.

Elvin Hayes led all scorers with 40 points. He also grabbed 21 rebounds.

New Orleans fought back a Denver rally in the closing minutes.

Steve Jones scored a career-high 37 points and Spencer Haywood led Denver with 26 points and 26 rebounds.

Los Angeles came back from a nine-point deficit in the final period and closed to within two with 11 seconds left.

Craig Raymond then had a chance to tie it at the foul line, but missed three shots.

Raymond led the Stars with 29 points, and teammate George Stone added 21. Gene Moore scored 30 and Lou Dampier chipped in with 25 for the Colonels.

Wakefield, Eben Advance In Class D Regional Play

MARQUETTE — The Wakefield Cardinals and Eben Eagles moved into Saturday's Class D regional finals by picking up victories in semifinal games Thursday night, the Cardinals in a rather convincing 92-60 triumph over Ewen-Trout Creek and the Eagles in a 59-58 squeaker over Baraga. Wakefield broke three regional fieldhouse records in scoring its victory. The Cardinals' 92 points broke a nine-year old record set by Marquette Pierce in 1961 for the most points scored in a tournament game and the 54 points they had at half time set a new mark for the most points scored in one half, topping the old mark of 53 set by L'Anse in 1967. The combined point total of 152 for the entire game broke the old record of 150 set by Hermansville and Ewen-Trout Creek in 1968.

Saturday Bowling Schedule Altered

The Bantam Jacks and the Jr. and Sr. League will bowl regular league schedules at the Bowl-A-Rama on Saturday, but the Bantam Jills will not bowl for the next three weeks because of the City Bowling Tournament. The Jills will begin bowling again on April 4.

Crusaders Face Negaunee In Tourney Play Tonight

By MIKE UTT

Tonight is the night that will tell the tale for Coach Gordy LeDuc and his Holy Name Crusaders, as they enter regional tournament competition at the C. B. Hedgecock Fieldhouse on the Northern Michigan University campus for the first time since 1962.

Oddly enough, when Holy Name played in its last regional tournament, its first opponent came from the same school the Crusaders are playing tonight, the Negaunee Miners. Holy Name defeated the Miners 78-59 in 1962 before winning the U.P. Class B title with a 58-54 victory over Ironwood in the regional finals.

Fans attending tonight's game, which will get underway at 7, will see two of the top defensive clubs in the Upper Peninsula. Holy Name allowed just 937 points through 16 regular season games and two district tournament contests for an average of 52.0 points per game, while Negaunee has allowed 1,071 points in 18 games for an average of 56.3 points per game.

Key to the Holy Name defense is its superior board strength, which is led by the front line of Dan Young, Joe Harvey and Steve Kleiman. Harvey, a 6 foot 5 inch junior, led the Crusaders on the boards this season with 241 rebounds, while Young had 147 and Kleiman 139.

Negaunee also has some height in its lineup with 6 foot 6 inch Scott Robare and 6 foot 3 inch Bob Mager, both of whom have been coming on strong lately according to LeDuc. The Miners are also blessed with some fine scorers in Darryl Waara, Andy Dellangelo and John Spelgatti.

LeDuc feels that the Miners may have some advantage going into the game since they played on the big fieldhouse floor in last year's regional tournament. He also said that they have a well-disciplined team which tries a lot of screens, hoping to work the big men free underneath the boards.

LeDuc felt that Negaunee's offense could be compared to the one run by Menominee this season.

LeDuc's starting lineup will include the same five players that have led the Crusaders all season. Sophomore Bill Skradski and senior Bob McGinn will open at the guard spots. Kleiman and Young will play the forwards and Harvey will be the center.

Skradski led the Crusaders in the scoring department during the regular season with 268 points, while Young was right behind him with 252. Harvey also did some fine scoring during the season and finished with 153 points, while McGinn had 107 and Kleiman 106.

Although the Crusaders did not play Negaunee during the regular season, the Miners are no strangers to LeDuc, who played against them last season while he was coaching at Marquette Bishop Baraga. He also coached two of the Negaunee players, Spelgatti and Mike McDonald.

Gafner's, Ness Notch Victories In City Tourney

Gafner's Automotive and Ness Construction registered victories in Wednesday night's City League basketball tournament play.

Gafner's got 19 points from Tom Boyle in upending the Jets by a 62-59 margin. Curt Erickson hit 23 points for the Jets.

Ness Construction, the regular season league champs, topped Tom's Signs 78-67 on Jim Almonroeder's 18 points and Fred Boddy's 17. Steve Fisher paced the losers with 27 points.

Tourney action will resume Monday night with Gafner's meeting Ness Construction at 7 and Robinson's going against the Stone House at 8.

Holy Name will be one of three Great Northern Conference teams playing in the Class B regionals tonight. Menominee and West Iron County are also included on tonight's schedule and will play at 8:30. Negaunee is a member of the Great Lakes Conference.

Czech Favored In Ski Event

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP)—A 27-year-old electrician from Czechoslovakia who stepped off an airliner here wearing his prized U.S. souvenir—a cowboy hat—is the man to beat in the ski-jumping show at Pine Mountain Saturday and Sunday.

Rudolf Doubek is favored to take top honors in a lineup of European and American stars.

Pressure will be on Doubek from two Czech teammates, two Norwegians, a Swiss, and leading American ski jumpers. Heading the Americans will be Adrian Watt from Duluth, Minn. The 22-year-old power jumper owns the Pine Mountain hill record of 337 feet he set here in 1968.

Other members of the U.S. team competing here include Ken Harkins of Duluth and Dave Norby of Madison, Wis. Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, the national ski jumping coach, will be riding here for the first time in three years since coming out of retirement last week at Ishpeming.

The weatherman holds the key to the success of the two-day tournament which could develop into the greatest distance jumping show ever staged in the 13-year history of the giant hill here. Upwards of 20,000 spectators are expected to witness the meets as more than 55 jumpers compete for top honors in four classes.

Tiger Pitchers Bombed In 5-0 Loss To Cards

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—For a team that may have to face the entire 1970 season without star pitcher Denny McLain, the Detroit Tigers sure haven't indicated so far they have a pitching staff that can take up the slack.

Detroit pitchers gave up 10 hits to St. Louis Thursday as the Cardinals blanked the Tigers 5-0 in their exhibition game at Marchant Stadium.

The loss dropped Detroit's Grapefruit League record to 3-4 but more significant was the pitching staff's earned run

Blues Close In On Puck Crown

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Flyers have traveled this route before. They're used to the Red Baron using them for target practice.

Last season, Red Berenson tied a National Hockey League record with six goals in a single game against the Flyers. The St. Louis superstar didn't score a single goal Thursday night but was every bit as devastating.

Berenson assisted on all four St. Louis goals as the Blues edged closer to the West Division crown with a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia. In the only other game played, Los Angeles dropped Pittsburgh 4-1.

Berenson's four assists came on goals by Phil Goyette, Gary Sabourin, Jim Roberts and Terry Crisp. Goyette's goal, his 27th of the year, was the winner with just over six minutes left.

Three St. Louis goals came with Philadelphia short-handed, giving the Blues 61 power play goals for the year.

The four points gave Berenson, known as the Red Baron, 67 points for the season. He led the West Division with 82 last year.

Ross Lonsberry and Eddie Shack powered Los Angeles' conquest of Pittsburgh with two goals each. The victory broke a six-game losing streak to the Penguins this season and only was the Kings' second in their last 20 outings.

average which climbed to 4.72.

"If I thought some of those guys couldn't pitch any better than they've shown, you bet I'd be worried," manager Mayo Smith said afterwards. "But they're not that bad—I know they aren't."

Joe Niekro started for Detroit and gave up just one hit and Tom Timmerman pitched the final inning without allowing a hit. But in between Mike Kilkenny and Jerry Robertson were disastrous.

Kilkenny, who has said he can win 20 games this season, was tagged for five hits and three runs while Robertson allowed four hits and two runs in two innings.

"I felt a lot better the second inning, though," said Robertson, who was bombed for seven runs in one inning against Minnesota Sunday. "I was turning my body more and pushing off better. I think I know what I was doing wrong."

Tiger pitchers will have to find out soon what they're doing wrong if they hope to make up the 24 victories won by McLain last year. Denny remains suspended indefinitely by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and it's not certain when the situation will be resolved.

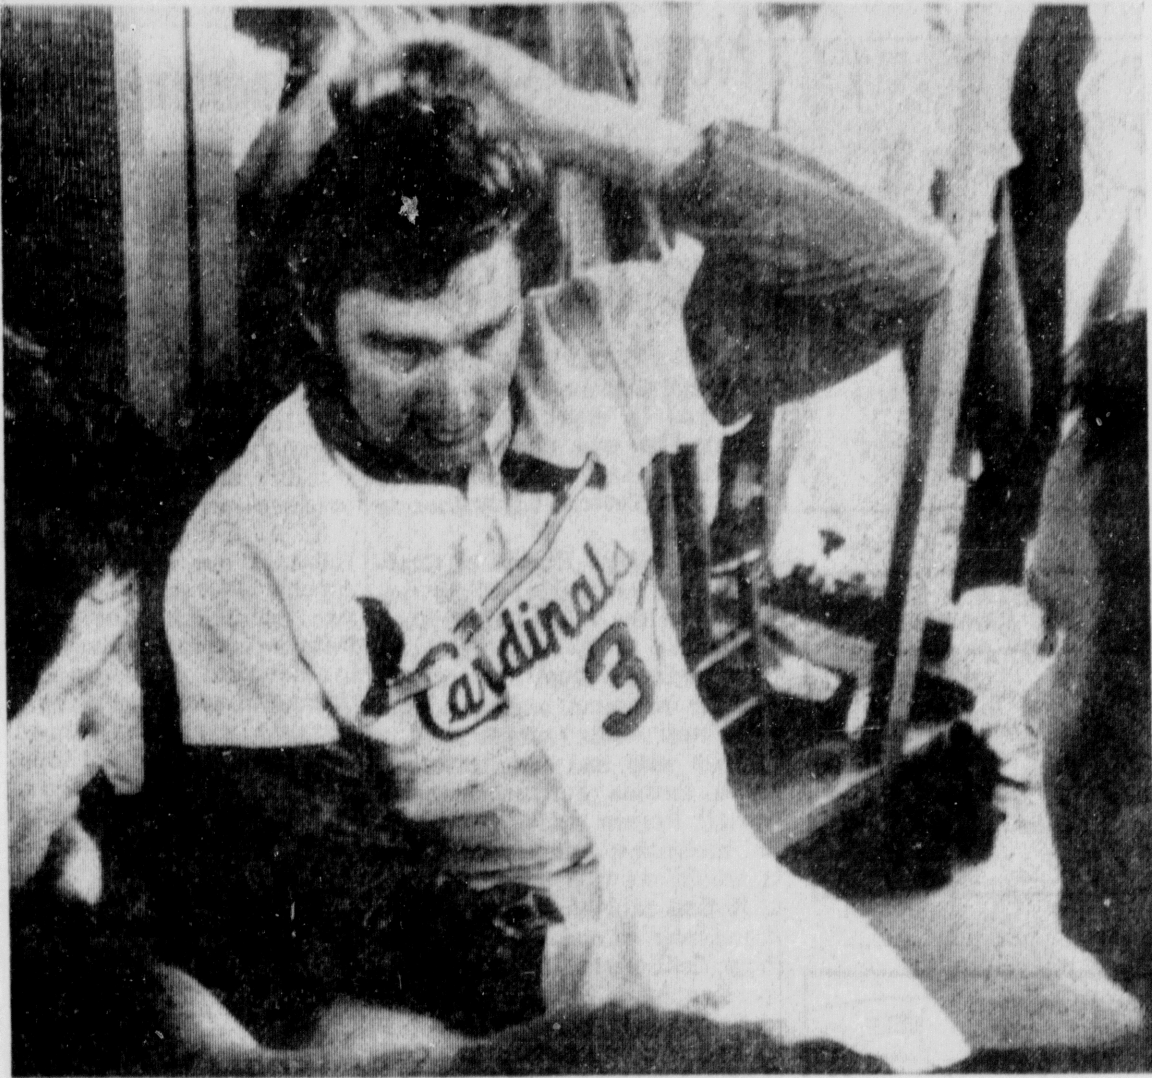

McLain has denied a rumor that he had telephoned friends in Detroit saying he expected a decision on his suspension within a day or so.

Detroit got five hits off Cardinal pitchers Nelson Briles, Harry Parker and Chuck Taylor who each worked three innings.

The Tigers were scheduled to host the Cincinnati Reds today.

UNSIGNED CARD — St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Steve Carlton has not signed his contract, but has started working out at the Cardinals' camp. Nelson Briles, left, and Joe Torre are in this conversation after a recent workout. Carlton won 17 games for the Cards last season. (AP Wirephoto)

Cardinal Owner Blasts Holdout Hurler Carlton

By The Associated Press

Bombastic August Busch dropped a low yield explosive on baseball's generation gap and the shock waves reached all the way to Houston where Jimmy Wynn is searching the classified ads, "looking for a job."

Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, gave holdout Steve Carlton a verbal dressing down Thursday, saying, "I don't care if he ever pitches another ball for us again."

A similar public explosion a day earlier had brought slugger Rich Allen into line in a hurry but Carlton was standing fast on his demand for $40,000—about $8,000 more than Busch was willing to pay the pitcher.

"I can't understand with the pension they (the players) have and how fair we are, how they can consistently call all of us, the owners, a bunch of tightwads and not worth a damn," said Busch.

The Cardinals sent Carlton a letter of renewal, stating that the pitcher's contract had been renewed at the estimated 25 per cent increase and that he would be permitted to play without signing if he wants to.

If Carlton, who is working but remains unsigned, agrees to play without a contract, he will lose certain pension and insurance benefits. Busch is standing firmly on his 25 per cent raise and refuses to move.

"My hope is that some other owners will have the guts to, do what I'm doing to help reverse this thing and get people back to normalcy."

Instead of normalcy, Wynn was on his way back to Houston after another fruitless salary conference with H. B. "Spec" Richardson, general manager of the Astros.

The slugging outfielder is asking for $60,000 and Richardson, who says he won't "negotiate ball player contracts in the newspaper," is holding the line at something over $50,000.

Wynn got support from second baseman Joe Morgan, his roommate, who said he believes the Astros could win the pennant with Jim, but not without him.

"Jim is the star of the ball club," said Morgan, "and of all the guys, he's the one we should keep happy. The other teams don't make the Aarons and the Mayeses unhappy. Right now, Jim is very unhappy and I don't blame him."

Meanwhile, exhibition action continued and the key men in one winter trade made the deal look good from both ends.

Alex Johnson, traded by Cincinnati to California for three pitchers including Jim McGlothlin, ripped three singles, drove in three runs and scored two in the Angels' 7-6 victory over Seattle. McGlothlin pitched four scoreless innings and the Reds shut out Kansas City 3-0 with four blanks by Tony Cloninger and one by Al Jackson completing the job.

Elsewhere, rookie Bill Buckner cracked four hits and drove in four runs while Andy Kosco added a three-run homer helping Los Angeles belt Houston 10-6. Jim Lonborg worked four scoreless innings and Billy Conigliaro tagged Tom Seaver for a home run as Boston topped the New York Mets 2-0.

Rookie Dwayne Anderson and veteran Rick Monday homered on consecutive pitches and Oakland walloped San Francisco 12-1. Cleveland pushed across a run in the 11th inning to top the Chicago Cubs 4-3. And St. Louis shut out Detroit 5-0 with Nelson Briles, Harry Parker and Chuck Taylor sharing the five-hitter.

Top Ranked Quints Advance In Tourney

By The Associated Press

Kentucky and UCLA, the country's top two ranking teams, are a step closer to a showdown battle next week for the national collegiate basketball championship.

Kentucky, ranked No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll of the season, came from behind to beat Notre Dame 109-99 in the Midwest regionals of the NCAA tourney at Columbus, Ohio, Thursday night.

UCLA, striving for its fourth straight national title and its sixth in seven years, shattered the 19-game winning streak of Long Beach State 88-65 in the West regionals at Seattle.

Jacksonville ended Iowa's 16-game winning streak 104-103, Villanova thumped Niagara 98-73, St. Bonaventure overpowered N.C. State 80-68, Drake beat Houston 92-87, New Mexico State overcame Kansas State 70-66 and Utah State shaded Santa Clara 69-68 in the other NCAA regional games.

Pairings Set

The results set up these pairings for the national quarter-finals in the four regional finals Saturday afternoon:

East at Columbia, S.C., 2:10 p.m., EST, St. Bonaventure, 24-1, vs. Villanova, 23-6.

Midwest at Columbus, Ohio, 4:05 p.m., EST, Kentucky, 26-1, vs. Jacksonville, 25-1.

Midwest at Lawrence, Kan., 4:10 p.m., EST, Drake, 22-6, vs. New Mexico State, 25-2.

West at Seattle, 6:05 p.m., EST, UCLA, 25-2, vs. Utah State, 22-6.

The winners of these four games move on to College Park, Md., for the semifinals and championship game Thursday and Saturday of next week, March 19-21, thus Kentucky and UCLA each are only two victories away from meeting for the national title March 21.

Rally To Win

The veteran Baron of the Bluegrass, 68-year-old coach Adolph Rupp, who would dearly love to win a fifth national title to match Johnny Wooden, the UCLA mentor, saw his Kentuckey Wildcats rally from a 53-48 halftime deficit to beat Notre Dame.

Dan Issel led the Wildcats' rally. He tallied 44 points, 24 of them in the second half, to help offset the 52 tossed in by Austin Carr of Notre Dame.

"One of our problems was that we were not getting the ball to Issel," Rupp said. "So I told the boys 'I don't know whether you noticed it or not, but he's got on a Kentucky jersey.' Once we got the ball to Issel we got some points."

"I thought we might do it, but we simply ran out of gas," said Johnny Dee, Notre Dame coach. "Kentucky is No. 1 until someone proves differently."

Dolphins Win

Jacksonville will try to prove differently Saturday. The Dolphins, virtually unknown at the start of the season, knocked off Iowa's Big Ten champions on Pembroke Burrows' tapin of a rebound with two seconds left.

Wooden Pleased

"I was very well pleased, particularly with our defense," said Coach Wooden of UCLA. "We kept them from the inside and attacked their zone very well. I would not have guessed that it would be this easy."

New Mexico State blew a 17-point lead, but rallied behind Jimmy Collins and Sam Lacey, to beat Kansas State. Drake stayed off a Houston rally in the closing minutes to beat the Cougars in the Midwest regionals at Lawrence, Kan. Collins' 23 points paced the Aggies. Al Williams led Drake with 24.

St. Bonaventure and Villanova had little trouble in beating N.C. State and Niagara in the East regionals at Columbia, S.C. Big 6-11 Bob Lanier led the Bonnies with 24 points, 19 rebounds and numerous blocked shots. Howard Porter's 29 points led Villanova. Niagara's Calvin Murphy was held to 18 points.

The 29-game winning streak of Stephen F. Austin, the No. 1 team in the final AP small college poll, was snapped by Guilford 100-94 in the NAIA quarter-finals at Kansas City.

Eastern New Mexico beat Maryland State 74-74 in overtime. Central Washington shaded Jackson State 72-70 and Kentucky State downed Central State of Ohio 66-56 in the other NAIA quarter-finals.

Jacobs Leading Monsanto Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Tommy Jacobs took a putting lesson on the pool table and it paid off in the first round lead in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

"When the pro-am was rained out Wednesday, my brother (John) and I went downtown to play some pool with Phil Rodgers and Jacky Cupit," Jacobs said Thursday after firing a five-under-par 66.

"While we were playing John told me something I was doing. He showed me that I was straightening up on the stroke. I got to thinking about it, and I think that's what I was doing putting, too."

So he corrected the putting stroke, had 10 one-putt greens and needed only 27 putts in his pace-setting round on the tree-lined, 6,625 yard Pensacola Country Club layout.

Tough young Grier Jones, a 23-year-old tour sophomore from Wichita, Kan., looking for his first victory, was just off the pace with a 67 that included a pair of bogeys and an eagle three.

Ray Floyd, fighting his way out of a slump that has plagued him since he won the PGA National Championship last fall, headed a big group at 68.

Non-Marching Guardsman In Line For Trial

LANSING (AP) — A Michigan National Guard officer has asked for trial by court martial on a charge he was absent without leave because he did not march in a 1967 Veterans' Day Parade in Lansing.

Capt. Robert Rogers of Charlotte, an ordnance officer assigned to the 107th Maintenance Battalion at Lansing, said he was excused from the parade by the battalion executive officer, Maj. Audis Lampman.

"My wife had been involved in a serious automobile accident," Rogers said. "She needed medical attention and I felt I should be with her."

Rogers said he arranged with Lampman to make up the four-hour drill period he missed by performing additional duty.

Rogers said, however, that his battalion commander, Lt. Col. Lewis Lankford, listed him as AWOL for missing the parade.

Rogers, 41, a captain in the guard since 1962, said because of the AWOL entry on his record and adverse efficiency reports submitted by Lankford, he had been passed over for promotion and is "being forced to retire" from the guard.

He said he was notified that he was being retired as of midnight Tuesday after completion of 20 years of service. This will cost him his full time duty assignment as the guard's assistant state maintenance officer, he said.

Rogers said he has filed a formal request asking Maj. Gen. Clarence Schnipke, state adjutant general, for the court martial. He said he wanted to have the AWOL charge removed from his service record.

Schnipke said he had not yet received the request. He added it is not mandatory that the request be granted.

"I'll wait until I see the letter but, from what I know of it at the moment I'm not going to authorize a court martial," Schnipke said.

Schnipke said Rogers was considered for promotion twice last year and was passed over by the promotion board each time. He said that under National Guard Bureau regulations, he was obliged to withdraw Rogers' federal recognition because the officer had not been recommended for promotion.

Withdrawal of the recognition had the effect of forcing Rogers' retirement.

Rogers claimed in a statement part of the situation came about because he was "a junior officer who did not have clique membership..."

Trio Asks Vote On Parochial

LANSING (AP) — Despite narrow legislative approval of parochial aid, three state senators want to continue their fight against aid to nonpublic schools by taking the question to the voters.

Sens. James Gray, Roger Craig and Gilbert Bursley introduced a resolution Thursday that would amend the State Constitution to ban direct or indirect use of state monies for private and parochial schools.

If approved by a two-thirds majority in both chambers, the question would be put on the November ballot for voters to decide.

The House earlier this week gave final approval to a $1.2 billion state school aid bill, including an estimated $22 million for secretarian schools, and sent it to the Senate.

The Upper Chamber, which last year passed a less expensive version of the aid bill with parochial aid, has yet to act on the numerous amendments tacked on the measure. Senators are expected, however, to refuse to accept the House version, sending the bill to conference committee.

Craig, a Dearborn Democrat, fought parochial aid through lower court but failed in a bid to declare Senate approval of the measure illegal. Bursley is an Ann Arbor Republican, Gray a Democrat from Warren.

Rally Scheduled By Girl Scouts

The annual Girl Scout Rally will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 in the Lincoln School Gym. The 58th anniversary of Girl Scouting is being celebrated this week, March 8-14, with the theme "Awareness-Action."

"Action" will be provided by each troop as they take part in a rally program for their parents and friends, according to Mrs. Earl Williamson, local Service Unit chairman.

There are 150 girls active in troops at the present time with the following leaders: Mrs. William Griffith and Mrs. John H. Orr, Brownie Troop 83; Mrs. Francis Malette, Mrs. Charles Varnum and Mrs. Kenneth Thorell, Junior Troop 80; Mrs. Conrad Hoholik, Mrs. Robert Hastings and Mrs. Robert Hawn, Junior Troop 79; Mrs. Fred Berger and Mrs. Earl Johnson, Junior Troop 82; Mrs. Alex Busch, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Gilbert Berwin, Cadette Troop 88; Mrs. John Wilson, advisor, Senior Troop 81.

It is hoped that Brownie Troops can be organized at Lincoln and St. Francis Schools in the near future.

The Manistique Girl Scout Council was dissolved May 1, 1969 and became a part of the new Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council, Inc. The new organization serves all of the U. P. and Iron County, Wis. The Manistique activities are guided by a local Service Unit with Mrs. Williamson, chairman, assisted by troop organizers Mrs. Wilfred Wallace and Mrs. Dino Pirolo. Troop consultants include Mrs. David Kelly, Mrs. Fred Berger and Mrs. Francis Malette.

Girl Scouts are currently taking orders for GS cookies. Profits from the sale are used to support camping and troop activities.

Registered Voter Count Down By 350

There are 350 less registered voters in Schoolcraft County as of March 1, 1970, than there were two years ago at this time, according to a report from County Clerk Ferdinand Lesica.

Lesica's biennial report shows the City of Manistique is down 109 while the eight township total is down 241.

Lesica said the drop in registrations could be attributed to the two-year voting requirement for valid registration and the recent state dictum that township and city clerks weed out all invalid and inactive registrations from the poll rolls.

An increase in local voter registrations is predicted since four

Rummage Sale Plans Started

Plans for a rummage sale were made by the Hiawatha School Head Start parents at a meeting this week. The group is seeking donation of clothing and miscellaneous household articles for the sale. Also needed are books, toys and records suitable for 3-5 year old children.

Anyone having any donations may drop them at 220 N. Third St. or call 341-6059 for a prompt pick-up.

Mrs. Marg Chandonais reported the State Federation organizational meeting she attended in East Lansing. The group also planned an April 3 bake sale which will be held at the Ben Franklin Store.

It was announced that a parents delegation from the Policy Board and Mrs. Shirley Oczus, Head Start Director, will join Al Holtien on WDBC Radio in Escanaba on March 25 for a discussion of the Head Start Program at 9 a.m. The Policy Advisory Committee will meet that same day at the Escanaba Civic Center.

The Lutheran and Hiawatha schools parents are planning a joint meeting and potluck supper in April. Mrs. Bert Kaiser was announced winner of a recent fund-raising project.

Parents were urged to take advantage of the Story Hours sponsored by the library and Community School each Saturday morning. All children three years and older are eligible to attend. Transportation will be furnished by calling 341-6059.

Ed LaVance, Educational Handicraft chairman, was present to instruct the group in making felt boards for Head Start children to work with at home.

Faculty Wins Benefit Game; Funds Hit $160

The MHS faculty was victorious in a benefit basketball game with the Intramural All-Stars played Friday at the high school. The contest ended with an 80-65 score. Rumor has it that the Faculty used the platoon system to wear out their opponents and emerge as top dogs.

The game raised $160 and kicked off a drive to raise funds to purchase blazers for next year's cage varsity. The drive goal is $500.

Howard Schwartz was the winning coach and counted Ron Baldini, Rudi Brandstrom, Bill Carmody, Arvid Larson, Rick Larson, Ty Orhanen, Pat Moberg and Seb Rubick among his players. Glenn Bignall was the All-Star coach.

Bignall said that 61 boys in grades 9-12 took part in a highly successful intramural program this year. Each team played a 10-game schedule except for the freshman squads, which played nine.

Leading scorers were Jim Sabinash, 169 points; Kris Johnson, 161; Dick Ekstrom, 159; Ken Roberts, 145; John Adams, 136; Bob Cayla, 120; and David Larson, 116.

Student teacher Joe Baldini assisted Bignall with coaching duties during the last four weeks of the program.

Briefly Told

Michigan State Police ticketed Robert Murbarger, Flint, speeding, and David Wood, 207 N. First St., driving with suspended license on Wednesday. Wood was arrested and jailed Wednesday night but released Thursday morning when he posted $50 appearance bond in District Court. Magistrate Howard Magoon set March 18 as arraignment date on the charge.

Dr. Glen J. R. Eschtruth will speak at the First United Methodist Church on Monday evening, March 16 and not Sunday, March 15 as previously announced. The general public is invited to hear the Congo Missionary Doctor talk about his experiences. The program will begin at 7:30 and a coffee hour will follow.

Glenn Bignall and Earl Williamson, MHS Science Department, left today for a National Science Association meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Fund-Raising Plans Of GOP Now Complete

The annual spring fund-raising dinner of the Schoolcraft County Republican Party has been tentatively set for May 4, chairman John W. Moffat said.

The committee is attempting to secure a nationally known speaker for the affair and the dinner date hinges on the speaker's availability, he added.

Meeting Wednesday night at the Court House, the group reviewed fund-raising activities for the year. During 1969, Schoolcraft County was one of 26 counties in the state to reach over 100 per cent quota; 16th of all state counties to make its quota, with Dickinson County the only U.P. county ranking higher; and placed fifth in the state in the amount of quota raised in cash, according to a report from the State Central Committee.

The Republicans meet regularly the second Wednesday of the month in the Court House.

Maury Wills, who stole 40 bases while playing with Montreal and Los Angeles last season, was caught stealing 21 times.

Augment Negroes In United Church, Pastor Proposes

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A move was pressed today to augment Negro leadership in a projected new united church embracing several wings of Protestantism, both black and white.

The Rev. Charles S. Spivey, a New York black churchman, proposed a requirement for interracial rotation of bishops in a move Thursday night at the week-long Consultation on Church Union. Action on the matter was deferred.

Only hours before, church representatives unanimously approved a stipulation limiting the national presiding bishop to eight years in office, and requiring that the post be filled alternately by bishops of different racial backgrounds.

Dr. Spivey's motion was to apply the same provisions at community, district and regional levels.

We're proud to be an American.
Rather than an import.

Hartley® Brandy is a little lighter,
And a little drier. Not because we couldn't make it like the French but because we're making a brandy for Americans out of American grapes.

And it comes out tasting the way Americans expect brandy to taste.

We don't expect you to pledge allegiance to our product or anybody's just because it happens to be home-grown. But next time you buy a bottle of brandy, why shouldn't it be one of ours?
